The plaintiff demanded an execution, which the Justice issued and placed in the hands of a constable for collection, during the time of the issuing of the execution and before the return day thereof, the defendant by his counsel requested the officer having the execution not to levy upon any property of the defendant, as he intended to apply to Thos. verdict.

A very remarkable letter, both for the manifest ignorance displayed in its contents, as well as a disposition to ignore and trample under foot the decision of the Sutents, as well as a disposition to ignore and trample under foct the decision of the Supreme Court of this State in the case of Barlow vs. Daniel & Co., decided April 4, 1855, and reported in 25 W. Va. pp. 512. It will be observed that this Judge desired to screen himself behind what he says is the opinion of Judge J. M. Jackson afters a conference with said Judge. Now every one that knows Judge Jackson will be loth to believe he ever entertained any such opinion as is announced in said letter, because he is recognised as a good lawyer and a profound Judge, kesping pace with not only the legal decisions of our own court, but with the courts of other States. And he would not intimate any such an opinion as indicated in said letter. Why should Judge Stealey use this expression in the letter to the defendant's Attorney, which was shown Squire Heas for a purpose? "He was surprised that Squire Heas should hesitate to recall the execution issued by him until an appeal was decided." If he had granted an appeal why did he not issue his order under the statute, directing the Justice to recall the execution and, if as he says, Judge Jackson entertained the opinion he for the statute of the deceant of the statute of the statute under the statute, directing the Justice to recall the execution, and, if as he says, Judge Jackson entertained the opinion he did, why did he not grant the appeal?

Here was an attempt to over ride the decision of the Supreme Court. And then to try and lay it at the door of another Judge shows a total disregard and violation of the confidence (if any there was) reposed in him by the Judge whom he says gave the opinion.

Public opinion will not indorse such rabine opinion will not induce a sun conduct, and an outraged constituency will rebuke it at the polls when the oppor-tunity presents itself, if not rebuked be-fore then by the law making power of our State.

Take two pieces of pasteboard, ten inches long and four inches wide, and cover each piece on the outside with or brown linen and on the inside with sateen box. For sale by Logan & Co. or silk of any color preferred, overhanding the edges very neatly with silk to match the lining. On the eutside cover paint a snowy branch with two or three paint a snowy branch with two or three birds perched on. "Merry Christmas" may be painted on in bold colors, or a wintry landscape can be sketched in sepis and Chinese white. Outlined or filled-in embroidery may also be employed for the decoration. In this case the work must be done before the linen is pasted on the cardboard. Fasten together at the back with a ribbon bow, and put on ribbons with which to tie them together.

Photograph cases are very useful for holding a few imperial photographs, and are often used nowadays as a substitute for the cumbrous and expensive album.

bolding a few imperial photographs, and are often used nowadays as a substitute for the cumbrous and expensive album. Handsome ones are made of plush, satin or silk, or a combination of two of these materials, but very pretty ones can be made of the ever useful brown linen. They are made like the old-fashioned handkerchief sachets, having a pocket at either end to receive the pictures. Take a piece of plush, or whatever material you intend using, eight inches long and eighteen wide, and fold over three and a half inches at either end to form a pocket. Double the plush in the middle now and put your ornamentation on the oblong piece thus formed. A spray of flowers worked in arrasene or in silk or crewels, according to the material employed, may be used for this purpose. A spray of forget-me-not in ribbon embroidery with leaves in arrasene would be appropriate. A satin ribben shout an inch and a half wide can be put diagonally across the plush, and on this a simple spray be worked or painted. In the left hand upper corner work "Counterfeit Present" in large scrip letters, using gold thread or heavy yellow silk. In the lower right hand corner work the initials of the friend for whom the case is designed. Now line the entire piece with silk or satinf of contrasting colors, and, after turning the reputation of being always enterprising, and ever reliable. Having secured the Agency for Consumption, will sell friend for whom the case is designed. Now line the entire piece with slik or sat-in of contrasting colors, and, after turning up the pocket, overhand the edges very neatly together. Yellow pansies on a purple ground are beautiful for such a case. This case may also be used as a handkerphief-holder, but the legend given would be inappropriate for such a purpose,

THE PERFUMED BALL-ROOM The Atlanta Constitution, speaking of the Mystic Owis' display, adds:

The perfumed ball room was one of the nevel and graceful features of this great event. As the guess entered the Oppta House they were greezed with the most colicious colors, as from a freshly blooming bed of a thousand flowers. The air was what may must controlled coors, as from a freshly blooming bed of a thousand flowers. The air was laden with the soft, sweet perfune that seemed to be the very breath of the goddess of pleasure and a woolng to the galeties of the occasion. A fountain, neasily placed, was playing all the evening, the cologue which gave forth this perfums, and the practiced senses of the ladies at once detected what it was. We need hardly say that the fountain and the two stomigers were dispensing to the atmosphere the odor of
